Spa

The term Spa is associated with water treatment. Historically forms of ritual purification existed among Egyptians, Greeks, Romans, Persians, native Americans,...today ritual purification through water can be found in religious ceremonies of Jews, Christians, Buddhists, Hindus,... These ceremonies reflect the ancient belief in the healing and purifying of the water. Complex bathing rituals were also practiced in ancient Egypt. Many people around the world believe that bathing in particular spring well, or river resulted in physical and spiritual purification. Today Spas typically offer various health treatments. A typical treatment includes:

Aromatherapy: a form of alternative medicine that uses volatile plant materials, known as essential oils, and other aromatic compounds for purpose of altering a person's mind, mood, Cognitive function, or health.

The most famous Egyptian physician was Imhotep in Memphis about 2500BC Imhotep's materia medica consisted of procedures for treating head and torso injuries, tending of wounds, and prevention and curing infection and advanced principles of hygiene. The Modes of applications of aromatherapy include: aerial diffusion: for environmental fragrance or aerial disinfection.

Topical applications for general massage, baths, compresses, therapeutic Skin care.

CAUTION: Uttati's essential oils are very potent and should never be taken internally. Although essential oils are used in minute quantities, some individuals may experience allergic reactions to them. To test, apply a minute amount to the skin on the top of the hand between the thumb and the index finger or to the skin just below the elbow.
